RE: Parents Forum

14th June 2011

Dear Parents/Carers

Many of you have expressed an interest in being part of a Parents Forum here at the Academy. The aim of a Parent Teacher Association (PTAs) or Parents Forum as we would like to call this here at the Academy is to foster better relationships between parents and their children's schools.

The Parent Forum will create a partnership for parents to learn more about the school and how to improve their children's education. Parent Forums do not necessarily represent the views of all parents but they can be an excellent forum for communication and a basis for partnership between parents and schools.

The role of the Parents Forum is fund raising for our school, organizing social events and providing links between parents, teachers, and children, and with our local community

What will your Parent Forum do?

It will meet at least once a term, either for social or fund raising events (usually both) you can help organize a specific event: Like a fete, Discos, Continental evenings, new uniform sales and second hand clothes sales, or any other activity we can think of. The Parents Forum will then help.

Why should you become involved?

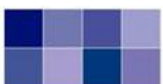

Clearly our children benefit from such activities and further fund raising is required to enhance our Academy. Also being on the Parents Forum and helping out at events means that you get to know lots of other parents (and teachers) within our Academy

How do you become involved?

Please complete the slip below showing your interest if you would like to be part of the Parents Forum. Should there be a large interest names will be selected in a draw.

If you would like to find out any further information please go on this website for more information: www.ncpta.org.uk/

We will be contacting Parents who have expressed an interest towards the end of term, in the meantime please complete the slip attached and return to me by Thursday 14th July 2011
